Scientology Network's DESTINATION: SCIENTOLOGY, the weekly travelogue series that takes viewers inside Scientology Churches all around the world and discovers what makes each one unique, presents an episode featuring Copenhagen, Denmark, on July 22.

DESTINATION: SCIENTOLOGY airs Mondays at 9 p.m. ET/PT on Scientology Network.

ABOUT DESTINATION: SCIENTOLOGY, COPENHAGEN

It is the city of Hans Christian Andersen—and the birthplace of some of the world's most beloved fairy tales. Originally a small fishing village established by the Vikings, today Copenhagen—Denmark's capital city—is one of the world's premier tourist destinations. And located in the heart of this magical place, the Church of Scientology sits just one block away from the longest and busiest walking street in Europe.

In this episode, viewers take a walking tour through European history—for this is a city where bicycles outnumber cars by 5 to 1, and walking is all the rage. The tour begins at the Church of Scientology—which is itself a treasured landmark meticulously preserved down to its finest detail. This walking tour continues to the cobbled streets that overlook romantic canals and the architecture that embraces them. Along the way, viewers will meet some of the Church staff dedicated to helping anyone who walks through their doors. And, you'll catch a glimpse of The Little Mermaid and see one of the oldest amusement parks in the world—an inspiration for Walt Disney himself. By the end of this episode, the charm that the city of Copenhagen brings over a million visitors each year will be undeniable.
